Players have been training with the technology at the studio and FIFA 22 will incorporate detailed player data, including head and foot position, direction, speed and acceleration during play. This feature will also allow players to see and understand exactly what the opposition is doing through “Eye of the Predator” cinematics. Hays also announced today that the game will contain more than 200 licensed clubs, covering 99 leagues and 600,000 players. This will increase from 88 leagues and 500,000 players in FIFA 21. Players will be able to make club-specific changes to difficulty settings, including more football-specific options, such as player ratings and specific play styles, and more advanced options, such as finer-tuned control. The more advanced options require more in-depth knowledge of the game. FIFA 22 will also contain an all-new Ad Hoc mode, available in free play and on all platforms. FIFA Ad Hoc mode allows up to 10 players to compete against each other using a range of different game modes. The mode is available now, and a minimum of 15 game modes will be included in a future patch. FIFA Ad Hoc is the perfect alternative for players who want to enjoy FIFA at home, on the go, or online. For additional information on FIFA Ad Hoc, please visit www.easports.com/fifa. There will be a Season Ticket/Compass Season for the EA Access and Origin Access members, with some additional exclusive items such as a new player avatar, Ultimate Team player card, and more. Players with a Season Ticket/Compass Season can create a club, play in a match against the AI, compete for rewards and earn points to unlock in-game items. The Season will run from May 3 to July 30 (South America, Europe, Asia, Africa, Oceania). Once the season ends, the player will unlock new in-game items. Each of the five game modes available for Season Ticket/Compass Season members are:

FIFA Ultimate Team, the official mode of FIFA 22, will also introduce new ways to play and unprecedented depth to be even more rewarding for gamers. Gamers can build their ultimate team in-game using nearly any combination of real world players. Now, players will have the ability to earn Experience Points (XP) by completing in-game challenges, and earn new card packs by playing matches. Additionally, for the first time ever, FIFA Ultimate Team card packs can be purchased by spending real-world money, as FUT now offers a 'Card Packs for Gold' system that can be spent on card packs to enhance your teams' XP earning power and Player progression. Finally, 'Card Picks' – cards that players earn in-game for free – can be sold for real-world money, bringing the depth of the FUT game to new heights in FIFA 22. FIFA 22 introduces new player modes including 'Real Player Motion' and 'Real Player Motion 2'. 'Real Player Motion', a key addition to FIFA, provides fans the chance to see players at the top of their game like never before. In addition, FIFA 20 introduced a brand new First Touch System – allowing players to use a variety of different methods of first touch. In FIFA 22, players can choose between 'First Touch', 'On Target', and 'Precise First Touch'. These new Player modes now capture a player's touch on the ball while they are in mid-air and afterwards. All these modes add new gameplay options to FIFA 22, raising the bar of daily and online game modes to a new level. Players can also use their My FIFA and Street Soccer Trainer to make new teams and play custom games with friends. New Commentary – The new commentary system allows FIFA fans to enjoy the game as if they were in the stadium, thanks to a microphone attached to every player. They can hear support staff for team instructions, managers to share tactical advice, and players to provide context on decisions and actions. New Player Health Icons – The Health Icons are crucial to understanding how players are performing during gameplay. A high line in the box indicates that the player is dangerous, a low line indicates the player is offside, and a half line or full line in the box indicates the opposite. The Health Icons also indicate how dangerous a specific position is for the opposing team, and how they will score
