According to the legend, a settler named "Whit" fell asleep while axing some trees. The ax slipped from his hands, and when he awoke, he found himself at the top of the mountain, surrounded by fire. Although the story is not verifiable, there are some who find it to be a legend "probably rooted in truth", a view also held by many others. NBA locked out 18 days ago and while the players' association and owners have agreed on the framework for a new collective bargaining agreement, there is no date yet for when a deal will be struck. So, on this Saturday before the NBA begins a league-imposed 10-day moratorium, Bryant -- who currently ranks 10th among all active NBA players in career scoring -- did what he's always done: he went to Twitter to make some sense of his status. Bryant, who is in the midst of a 10th season in the NBA, has done quite well professionally as well. His career scoring average of 26.7 points per game is second only to Michael Jordan among the athletes who have reached the 600-game mark. But it's not the most impressive feat
