- Server Update by 3rd party
- 12/31/2023 maintenance notice

—Academia (Kansai)—

Update Status (Dear Users!)

Changes have come in our server and as such further updates are needed. The current situation has not been even close to our expectation of on-going updates, and the problem is not only with our server.

Unfortunately, the current critical issues have been concentrated on the server side, and unfortunately, we will not be able to perform during the next maintenance (24th December 2020 GMT+9). We deeply apologize for the inconvenience caused by this and we do our best to ensure that the server problems do not impact us again, and will work hard to respond to the issues as soon as possible.

We have planned a new server maintenance for the 10th (GMT+9) January. This maintenance may be expanded to a double maintenance, but this depends upon the situation and we cannot be certain at this time.

We will contact the affected users with more information once it becomes available.

Update on Community Issues

Recently, we have turned our focus on preparations and confirmed whether users are using the title described as being a demo title. It has been confirmed that most of the titles are not legitimate titles and you are currently consuming a fake title. Therefore, we have started investigating with each of the titles so that we can leave users in a peaceful state of mind.

We know that these results are far from acceptable.
