Rapid Designing for Fun and Profit combines old fashioned and traditional techniques with the new revolutionary age of 3D computer models of any kind, for rapid development, prototyping and low cost production. User Interface: The interface makes you use the mouse and keyboard to create and edit your graphics. It is user friendly, yet fully featured and advanced. You can choose between one object or multiple objects. Each object you draw will be an object in a 3D scene, and you can interact with and navigate through 3D scenes and objects in any order you want. You also can load and save all your work to your hard drive in the easy to use file format. Create a prototype in seconds: With this software you can quickly create a 3D mesh of any object of any shape. You can create it with any model you have in your hard drive, or you can draw it with the mouse and keyboard. Or if you don't have a 3D model, you can import an image of any object or scene. So you can quickly and easily come up with a 3D model of any object you need quickly. Renders, animation and exporting: It offers multiple rendering options, and exporting options for Quicktime, Video, Windows Media, Flash, Windows, Emscripten, Android and iOS. If you choose to render the model you can have your model view rendered right away, or render it on your hard drive to be used in any other software. You also can render or export in real time or on a waiting basis. Customize your 3D mesh: You can customize it by choosing different color schemes, lighting, background colors and images, and text from any image file you have on your hard drive. You can also pick from a large variety of fonts and add text to your model. You can click and create Bezier shapes: Bezier shapes can be created by clicking, dragging and moving the handles, and clicking again to add another Bezier shape or curve. Each handles are represented by small Bezier shapes. You can also create multiple curves or endings on your Bezier shape, or combine bezier shapes into a piecewise linear curve. Bezier curves can be rotated, translated, scaled, rotated again, stretched and/or rotated again. You can bevel and create rounded corners or round off your curve at any position. You can use a selected point on a curve to draw an arc, circle, rectangle, triangle

What's new:

. This will show the address bar I set up: ## Stopping the navigation service Now we are ready for our first integration test! We will show that our app is able to actually start the embedded navigation service on a Bluetooth connection. We will start by creating a `NavigatorState` component that will be responsible for the state and UI update. We will also add the initialization of our navigation service. Here we are trying to use and initialize the embedded, cross-platform navigation service provided by the Chromium browser to show an alert dialog containing the word _Hello_. With `navigator.service.showToast("Hello World!")` we can show an alert and a dialog like this: const AlertDialog = (data, title, actions) => (

{`Title: ${title}`}

{`Message: ${data}`}

actions.pop()}>Pop actions.accept()}>Accept actions.cancel()}>Cancel); const values = { title: "First test", message: "First test, we can show a dialog with this simple integration test." }; const onAccept = v => {} const onPop = () => {} const onCancel = () => {} function NavigatorState({navigator}) { return (

Superlumi Live is a frantic Mario-style platformer where you guide a tiny star through millions of galaxies that are opening up all around him in a search for his lost mother. But find his mother you must, because our blue hero won't have to take too many more life-threatening falls from the untouchable hills of Dogwood City before he puts this thing right and regains control of his galactic destiny once and for all. And if this doesn't motivate you, then nothing will. In Superlumi Live, you play the role of little Lumi, a tiny, blue star with a mad urge to seek out Mom. It's been a long journey, and Lumi's met with a lot of setbacks along the way, but now it's all down to the wire. He's close to accomplishing his goal, but a familiar black silhouette appears again—it's Mom, trying to reunite with her long-lost son! But it's not as easy as he'd hoped. Experience an unforgettable and challenging adventure as Lumi, your trusty guide, on his quest to find Mom and find out what happened to her! Key Features: Look up to the stars for help to rescue Mom from the ominous black silhouette, while avoiding all of the many enemies! The game consists of 75 levels with a story-line and 5 bonus levels for extra points! A crazy game with a story-line and lots of 'points', made for all ages and gaming fans! If you guys are new to CityHopper, you can check out the free demo here. It's a fun little concept based on a cartoony world where you play as an astronaut that must avoid falling into the ocean. It's a bit more freaky in the final game. If you're a fan of the city hopping games, you'll have a good time here. The controls are easy enough but in a FPS setting you will have to use them. There's a hint system so you can see what the game is asking you to do. There's also a story so keep an eye out for the space rocks. I've only made the first few levels and I'm on level 25. I'm playing this more for the artwork than the gameplay so far but it has me seeing it through to the end. The artwork is pretty good for a Flash game. I can
