Can someone please translate this into English? I can understand what the problem is and how to fix it, but I just can't understand this.

(Is this a bad translation I made, or should I ask "who is this guy"?) A: From the word order, it seems like it's a phrase from Minna no

Nihongo (日本語)
Translates to 英語
"The English
language is an import, done to those who have learned it.
To those who speak
or understand Japanese, it is as nothing." I get "The English language is a good language which is different from Japanese. It is good for those who have learned and/or grown up with it. It is a language that those who don't speak or understand Japanese cannot achieve." as a result from this.

Because Japanese people recognize English as a 'foreign' language, they usually think of it as a good language, or try to avoid doing it as much as possible.

The man in the picture is probably trying to say that learning English is like cooking. Cooking is something that they have mastered, and they are trying to tell those who don't know how to cook that they should learn to do it. 514 So.2d 1363 (1987) Mack HILL v. STATE. 4 Div. 445. Court of Criminal Appeals of Alabama. August 25, 1987. On Return to Remand May 8, 1988. Rehearing Denied June 4, 1988. Donald

G. Davis and Drew Schutte of Coale, Helmsing, Lyons & Sims, Mobile, for appellant. Don Siegelman, Atty. Gen., and James F. Hampton and Andy S. Poole, Asst. Attys. Gen., for appellee. BOWEN, Presiding Judge. Mack Hill was convicted of the unlawful distribution of a controlled substance in violation of § 13A-12-211,

Code of Alabama
1975. The trial judge sentenced Hill to eight years'
imprisonment. On appeal the Court of Criminal Appeals
affirmed Hill's conviction. However,
Hill has petitioned
this Court for writ of certiorari. Because of the emphasis on
"average purity"
placed in the majority opinion by Judge Maddox, we issued

the writ for purposes of clarification and for application of the proper definition of
"purity" 6d1f23a050
