I have a Matrox video capture card. I have installed the software, it auto recognized my Matrox video capture card. All seems to work fine. But when I point the camera and press record, nothing happens. No video is recorded. After an hour or so of playing with the software and reading up on all kinds of "tutorials" online, I still cannot get it to work. Please help!!! Thanks for the video captures. You seem to be using a personal problem, which may not be familiar to others. Based on the name of the program, I'm guessing that it is a laptop. Most laptop owners like to capture movie files rather than record Skype video calls. For this purpose, the most flexible and user-friendly choice is to use Windows Live Movie Maker. The one available from Microsoft online can be found in the following link. <https://www.microsoft.com/en-us/download/details.aspx?id=28412> The software is useful for recording anything on the screen. You can also disable the log screen, which makes the other applications to still remain active and captures them on video simultaneously. Other than screen recording, the software also has a built in image editor that enables you to edit the image in a number of ways: Increase the brightness, increase or decrease the contrast and sharpen up the image. The software also has a built-in screen recorder that captures the screenshot and a video recording tool. The screen recording feature allows you to choose the video codec and the resolution. The video recording feature lets you choose the frame rate, encoder, and the video format for your video recording.
