<http://www.software.arctgis.com/folder/getfiles.cfm?folderid=4ad73011fd240560b87b2807d8c3578e> you think bimberi is going to teach that child about the economy? you think that is the voice of democracy? bimberi will kill them all. want the truth? the first step in revolution is civil war. a revolution is nothing, but civil war is war. war by definition is the active intervention of a government to enforce its authority, but, when civil war occurs, the government which started it dies and its authority dies with it. the world we live in is within the context of a civil war, with all of the consequences. the venezuelan government, they are the government of the government. and that is the beginning of the end. that is the first step of them killing the revolution. you know about cuba, do you not? it is not like you are ignorant. look what is happening. i have nothing good to say about the maduro government. i have nothing good to say about the mass incarceration of journalists and opposition leaders and environmentalists and the managers. i have seen news of their extermination. these will not be collateral damage. they will not be among those that the guaid government will share with us. there will be no negotiation. not now. not ever. this is a battle to the death. its about whether the people that can be against it are all armed and ready to go out and defend themselves, or not. they will go down fighting or surrendering. its time to make your choice.

i think one of the things that has been a little overlooked in the last few weeks is that the colombian government is very interested in the current situation in venezuela. the farc, the revolutionary armed forces of colombia, they have had a good partnership with the venezuelan government. and i think that the colombian government sees that venezuela is going to be the biggest challenge to their security in the coming years. they have a very, very good relationship with the united states, and i think they would like to change the relationship with the united states, but they also want to have a relationship with the united states, because they want the united states to help them. i think the colombian government is very concerned that the united states is going to be very difficult to deal with, because they are going to be very concerned about the effect of the situation in venezuela on their security. most of the countries around the world, the united states included, have a long tradition of a free press. we know that we are a free people because of that, and we know that we have a free press and the press is the ultimate check on power. and for those who believe that the press is the enemy of the people, im very concerned about what is happening in venezuela, because they are starting to take on what is a democratic tradition, and that should be of concern to all of us who believe in freedom. trouble is, the press, at least in the united states, is not really free. we know that. it is owned by corporations. some of them are privately held. others, like news corp, are publicly owned. but the point is, they are the owners and they are the operators and, to some extent, the regulators of the press. and what we see in venezuela is a government, or at least a faction within the government, that is determined to create a new press system where the press is controlled by the government, and is controlled not by the people, but by the president. and that is a very frightening thing to me. 5ec8ef588b
