

i'm trying to use windows 10, 64-bit. i have a lexmark x79, and i was able to install the driver, but it doesn't seem to be working. i was able to print a test page, but it was grey, and the test page was very small, so i don't think the printer is working. i'm going to try and reinstall the driver again, but i'd like to know if there is something else i can do. i have a sharp mx-7200. it has 2 buttons on the front panel. i was able to configure the printer fine when it was installed on windows 7, but i can't get it to work on windows 10, 64 bit. everything that i've tried, the buttons just sit there and don't print. i've tried the "add printer", but it says "possible reasons for the problem: installed wrong type of driver, didn't install the driver, printer is currently in use, printer is not connected, printer is not turned on, printer's connection is blocked, program or hardware problem, etc." the printer doesn't even show up in the list of printers. is there anything else that i can try? i was able to use the printer with no problems on windows 7, so i know that it's not a hardware problem. i am trying to get a lexmark e470 printer to work with windows 8.1. i have downloaded the latest driver from the website and installed it. i can see the printer in the windows 8.1 print screen. when i click print, i get a message saying that the printer is not ready. nothing happens, and the printer is not detected. has anyone else had this problem? somewhere around 2010.1 the printer got slower and slower, and the "squares" appeared on the paper. i tried to print a ticket, and got a lot of blank squares on the back of the ticket. i changed the ink cartridge.
